OGDEN, Dec. 27.—Christmas was universally observed here. Business was suspended and all citizens devoted the day to family socials and other gatherings of "good cheer and good Special services, appropriate music and other features, to the day, were held in all the churches, and day, were held in all the churches, and the day was made a happy one for all. A splendid dinner was served at each of the state schools in this city, Dr. Gowans was the genial host at the Industrial, and Prof. Driggs at the Deaf and Blind institution. The poor and unfortunate were remembered and made glad by the generous ministrations of the bishops of the various wards and their aids, and the ladies of the Relief societies, who carried good cheer and substantial comfort to the homes of the less fortunate. Last night and tonight balls and other social festivities for the young people were liberally patronized.

HORSE THIEF BADLY WANTED BY SHERIFFS

OGDEN, Dec. 27.—The sheriffs of Davis and Weber counties are anxious to locate the whereabouts of a stranger who gave the name of R. I. Jackson, who stole a pair of horses from parties in Davis counsty and came to Ogden and sold them for $75 to Claude Dee, a local liverman. After getting the money the man proceeded to do a little Christmas shopping around the city, and then caught an outgoing train a few minutes before it was learned that the animals had been stolen.

STREET ILLUMINATION FOR WOOL CONVENTION

OGDEN, Dec. 27.—Danville Decker, local manager of the Utah Light and Railway company, has written to the decoration committee of the National Wool Growers convention to the effect that his company will furnish the streets and in the auditorium during the time the convention is in session. Jan. 6 to 9. This means that the streets of Ogden will be beautifully lighted from the Union depot to Washington avenue and thence north to Twenty-third street with myriads of incandescent lamps and the lighting company is to be congratulated upon its generous offer. Thousands of people have complimented Ogden on this artistic method of street lighting which is used on all special occasions and the light company is usually generous enough to donate the electric current.

STOLE TURKEY TO GET DINNER.

OGDEN, Dec. ZI.—Determined to have a turkey dinner on Christmas, George Thorpe and Frank Whalar, both colored, stole a large bird from the rear of a restaurant on lower Twenty-fifth street on Saturday evening and taking it to the proprietor of the eating house, made a bargain by which they agreed to give him the turkey in exchange for a good dinner, with the understanding that part of the turkey in exchange for a good dearted proprietor and it was not long before the colored gentlemen were indulging in the feast of their lives. In the meantime the cook missed the bird and the police arrived on the scene in time to escort the hungry pair to the city jail, where they will be the guests of Jalier Anderson for some time. STOLE TURKEY TO GET DINNER.

TARERNACIE SERVICES

OGDEN, Dec. 27.—At the tabernacle Sunday afternoon the beautiful Christmas cantata, "Star of Bethehem" was presented by the Ogden tabernacle choir, under the direction of Prof. Joseph Ballantyne, and the following soloists: Mrs. Bessio Dean Allison, Miss Maude Beinap, Miss Bessie Blair, Mr. Walter L. Shepherd and Mr. Caleb Marriott. Elder David O. McKay interpreted the cantata presenting the Christmas thought in four parts preceding the singing of the solos and choruses. This is without doubt the finest thing of its kind ever heard in Ogden and the singers are to be highly complimented upon their splendid rendition of this most magnificent work. The tabernacle was filled to capacity and the presentation of the cantata required over 40 minutes. OGDEN, Dec. 27.—At the tabernacle junday afternoon the beautiful Christ-

SMALLPOX SITUATION IMPROVING AT HARRISVILLE

OGDEN, Dec. 27.—It is reported by County Commissioner Frank Moore that there are now between 30 and 35 cases of smallpox at and adjacent to the village of Harrisville. Dr. J. D. Pidcock, county physician states that the victims of the disease are getting along nicely and he is busy at present inspecting conditions in that locality.

FORESTERS CONVENTION JAN 10. FORESTERS CONVENTION JAN 10.

OGDEN, Dec. 27.—Acting Forester R.
P. Imes has received advice from Washington, D. C., that the forester's convention to be held in Ogden will meet on Jan. 10 and continue till the 14th, instead of Jan. 7 to 11 inclusive, as recently announced. The reason given for the change in date is that the city will be well filled with visitors on the 7th and 8th attending the Wool Growers' convention and it is thought that more can be accomplished when the city is not so crowded.

MATERIAL FOR GAS PLANT.

MATERIAL FOR GAS PLANT.

OGDEN, Dec. 27.—General Manager
Joseph S. Wells of the Utah Light & Railway company stated, in a recent interview, that material for the new Ogden gas plant had been ordered and that the plant would be operating within 60 days. It seems that considerable delay has been caused in receiving this machinery, due to slow transportation on the railroads, and therefore it will be considerably later than was originally planned before the plant will actually be under operation. Local officials are in nowise to blame for this condition as they have done all in their power to meet the increasing demand for gas and they expect to be in a position to supply the wants of all consummers within a very short time. The new plant will be of the most modern type and this, together with the new mains and extensions, should make the Ogden gas system one of the finest in the west.

UTAH BATTERY REUNION.
